THE ICONIC TIGER RESERVES OF INDIA

Bandhavgarh Tiger Reserve

One of the world's highest tiger density reserves, Bandhavgarh is renowned for its dramatic landscapes, lush plains, and unparalleled tiger encounters. February marks the beginning of the dry season, increasing the chances of observing tigers near water sources.

Kanha Tiger Reserve

A conservation success story, Kanha offers vast sal forests, misty meadows, and sightings of Bengal tigers, leopards, wild dogs, and the rare Barasingha deer. The park is a flagship of India's Project Tiger and provides one of the most immersive safari experiences in the country.
